A Torchy Situation

The Mid-century Modern and Arts and Crafts movements served as the inspiration for Frederick Cooper's latest lighting collection, which includes an eclectic mix of materials, such as art glass and perforated metal. Available in bronze and brass, the Ajax Lamp features a black perforated metal shade and tripod base. Designer Gallery, 858-270-8601

Building Blocks

Calligaris delivers when you're in the market for modern, modular storage and home office solutions. Create your own wall composition with Moss hexagonal metal containers (available in five colors) and Moss mirrors. Both affix to the wall with magnets. For the floor, choose from felt baskets in various shapes, sizes and colors, such as the Hub cylindrical, which comes as a set of two nesting baskets. The Allure lamp, Tweet table, Follower rug and Electa chair fit the vibe. Hold It Contemporary Home, 619-295-6660

Crossing the Line

The Fretwork 72 sideboard by Altura Furniture features a geometric grid of raised metal inlay that overrides the break points between doors and drawers. Pulls integrated into the grid keep the lines clean. Shown here in walnut with a satin brass inlay, the piece is available in a variety of size configurations and finishes. Thomas Lavin, Los Angeles, 310-278-2456 (to the trade)
