FUSE LIGHTING

KEVIN KOLANOWSKI
Driven by his desire to marry traditional and modern lighting, Kevin Kolanowski spent years studying the interaction between light and texture with unusual materials before founding Fuse Lighting in 2000. Widely regarded as 'jewelry for the home,' each lighting fixture captures Kevin's flair for atypical and sculptural design. Fuse Lighting is entirely handcrafted by artisans in Los Angeles to maintain the authenticity, integrity and unparalleled quality of every design.

MCEWEN LIGHTING STUDIO

MICHAEL McEWEN
Artifacts of the Machine Age. Jules Verne's futuristic Victorian contraptions. Hoover Dam. Such feats of engineering, real or imagined, inspire Michael McEwen's contemporary lighting designs. The third-generation Californian – a Pasadena native – established McEwen Lighting Studio in 1990, initially creating custom pieces available through art galleries and private commissions and subsequently creating a line of pendant lighting, sconces, floor and table lamps, and other light fixtures available through design showrooms. Today, through Michael's collaboration with prominent architects and interior designers, MLS lighting can be found illuminating high-end private residences across the country, and shedding light on offices and commercial establishments such as Pixar, Dreamworks Records, Chaya Brasserie restaurant, and Stagg's Leap Cellars.

MAGNI HOME COLLECTION

JAMES MAGNI

Since founding his firm, James Magni has left an indelible mark on the worlds of architecture and interior design. His projects fuse sensual textures, flawlessly designed custom furnishings, and the dynamic impact of contemporary art. In 1996 James began creating pieces what is now known as the Magni Home Collection, integrating his signature point of view with his passion for the highest level of craftsmanship and the finest materials including bronze, cast and hand-blown glass, exotic hardwoods, parchment, and leather. Aided by Brooke Magni as Operations Manager, the collection expanded to over 150 pieces of fine furnishings, lighting, rugs, and a line of fine leathers.

AESTHETIC

RICHARD B JOHNSON

In a style which he describes as Renovated Traditionalism, designer Richard Johnson's furniture collection, AESTHETIC, is a fresh and unique approach to traditional design, interpreted through the eyes of a native Californian.

Referencing stylistic elements rather than reproducing period styles, Johnson has created a timeless hand crafted collection with a focus on form, perfectly proportionate and pleasingly tactile. Every element is hand made in Los Angeles, from the grain selection, to the wood turnings, to the hand planing and in some cases, even hand woven panels of sea grass or rush.

ALTURA

JEFF BEHNKE AND ROLAND ZEHETBAUER

A passion for design matched only by the desire to build. Founded in 1983 Altura's vision was to develop visually intriguing modern furniture balanced with functionality, and produce these pieces in house with the finest workmanship. Altura offers an impressive variety of products made in a wide variety of materials. Drawing on a refined repertoire of styles, techniques and finishes, Altura is known to explore the discovery of inspiration, which lends an innovative and creative aspect to their work. Partners Jeff Behnke and Roland Zehetbauer lead the design and fabrication of their hand-made furniture out of their shop in Portland, Oregon with a team of dedicated artisans.

STUDIO JOSEPH WATTS

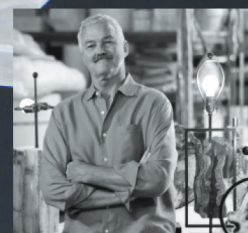

JOSEPH AND JAMES BARKER

Known for their “hands on”, in-studio approach, artisans Joseph and James Barker present a special collection of artfully handcrafted lighting pieces – in solid bronze, stainless steel, and kiln glass – from their esteemed Studio Joseph Watts. This in-studio approach enables the brothers to feature custom and site-specific installation pieces in addition to their collection.

RON DIER

RON DIER

Ron Dier has always drawn inspiration from the intersection of nature and fine jewelry, while striving to defy gravity in each piece. Originally creating classic ceramic forms in 22k precious metal finishes, the line has diversified and expanded. Keeping to his mantra of creativity, production excellence and customer service, the Ron Dier team now creates an exquisite lighting line, bold stone topped tables, one of a kind sculptures, and an expansive mounted mineral line.
